The right to peaceful happiness comes through the acceptance of love. Love, inscribed through the symbol of the heart in the streets of Venice, questions the importance of its expression. To journey, to wander, to cultivate harmonious, peaceful, and mutually supportive thinking becomes the purpose of existence. Thus, highlighting love through the use of the color pink allows us to marvel at a world where love is more than a living cry; it is the very foundation of our humanity, across all societies and civilizations. This world exists because we dream of it.
